Ruelco Level Switch (featuring Model 30C2 2" NPT Pneumatic)

The Ruelco Flex Level Model 30C2 is a pneumatic liquid level switch. It incorporates a 2" NPT thread, giving it substantial mounting flexibility. The sensor operates a pneumatic valve when the liquid in a tank or pressure vessel reaches a predetermined level. The level switch can be configured as a low or high level switch, with either two or three way operation.

- 316 stainless steel construction (models to N.A.C.E. MR0175 available).
- Design has no deep cavities or recesses exposed to the process fluids for debris accumulation and is excellent for dirty fluid applications.
- Uses a patented pivot seal mechanism to transmit liquid buoyancy to the valve operation mechanism with the pivot completely isolated from the process fluid.
- Mode of operation ('HI' or 'LO') is easily changed and no re-calibration is required.
- Level adjustments cannot be easily tampered with after installation, making this switch well suited for critical applications.
- Also available in Electric (Model 38C2).
- Also available in Pneumatic (Model 31C2) and Electric (Model 39C2) Flange Mount.
- Optional Mounting Cage (Model 3C0) available.
- SIL 3 capable models available.
